GET MORE ROPE.

Another Outrage Reported at Woodbury.

Miss Mary McKnight, a Beautiful Young Lady, Outraged by a Barley Negro at a Spring.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

NASHVILLE, June 28.—Special from Woodbury says: "One of the most outrageous crimes ever known to this community was committed yesterday afternoon. Miss Mary McKnight, a beautiful and respected young lady, was at a spring near her home dipping up a bucket of water, when a big negro named Tom Lillard seized and outraged her. He ran but was pursued, captured and placed in jail. At this hour large crowds of determined men are on the streets of Woodbury, and say openly, that they will lynch the negro this afternoon. Great excitement prevails. Miss McKnight is critically ill."

McGehee Bros. are agents for the celebrated Stetson hats, and have them in all shades and styles.

SENSATION AT KINGSTON.

A Wedding was to Take Place, But the Bridegroom Backed Out.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

NASHVILLE, June 28.—Kingston Springs, near this city, was treated to quite a sensation day before yesterday. It was a joke for uninterested parties, but quite a serious matter for a young lady.

Mr. John Wells, a telegraph operator, and Miss Minnie Moore, were to be married on the evening mentioned. Miss Moore was at the place designated with her attendants; the preacher was there, but no bridegroom. The marriage was declared off and a search instituted for Wells, but he has not, as yet, been found.

Mrs. Pettus' Boarding and Day School for Young ladies and girls will reopen 5th of Sept., 1892, at her residence on Madison street. Catalogues had on application.

His First Couple.

Rev. Collins Denny was called on last night for the first time since his removal here to tie a couple from Kentucky. It was about 11 o'clock and the minister felt some reluctance in getting out at that time of night to officiate at a wedding. He did not know that it was a custom here, but when he was told that it was all right, like a good, pious man, he decided to go. He was piloted to the Arlington, where he found Mr. J. J. Harlin, a traveling man from St. Louis and Miss Mamie Small, of Elkton, waiting to be tied. After being assured that they were in dead earnest, Bro. Denny said the words and sent them on their way rejoicing. He called at the LEAF-CHRONICLE office this morning to know if he had done anything wrong. He was promptly assured that it was all right and proper, and he was given permission to tie up any lovesick couple from Kentucky that might call for him. Henceforth he is in the ring and "Squire Smith will have to look to his laurels."

The greatest cut of the season is now on at Simon Katz's. He will give you choice of a good stock of ladies' and children's hats at 25 cents each. Go there and investigate.

JOHN'S WIT

Expelled in Disgrace.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

BLOOMINGTON, IND., June 28.—James F. Morgan has been expelled in disgrace from the Christian church here, for attempting to dishonor two excellent young ladies of this section last Friday night.

Science can not produce a better remedy for all malarial diseases than "C. C. C. Certain Chills Cure." Pleasant to take. Guaranteed to cure Chills and Fever. Sold by Owen & Moore.

Errata.

The reporter made a mistake yesterday in locating the teachers' institute. It is being held in the court-house, instead of Howell school, where it has been held heretofore. The report was furnished without locating the institute, and it was surmised that it was being held at the customary place—Howell school.

Attention, Forbes Bironac.

A meeting of Forbes Bironac will be held at the court house next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

COUNTY TREASURER ROBBED.

A Trunk Containing Several Thousand Dollars Carried Off and Rifled.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., June 28.—A sensational robbery is reported from Paris, Ark. County Treasurer Fuller deposited between $4,000 and $5,000 in a large trunk, which he kept in an upper room of his house on the outskirts of the town. Both he and his wife were away from the house for a few hours. When they came back the trunk was gone. The money and other valuables were gone. The whole town is looking for the robbers. This is the second time the County Treasurer has been robbed. In the former instance the robbers got $11,000.

THE OHIO VALLEY.

Statement that it Has Purchased the Princeton Branch.

Gen. John Echols is Elected President of the Ohio Valley, Replacing P. G. Kelsey.

There was considerable excitement in the city this morning when a dispatch from Louisville to the American was read stating that the Ohio Valley had purchased the Clarksville and Princeton division. An attempt to verify this report has met with a signal failure here, nobody knowing any thing about it. The dispatch is as follows:

LOUISVILLE, June 27.—The fact has just become known that the Ohio Valley Railroad, extending from Evansville to Princeton, Ky., has a new President. Gen. John Echols, Vice-President of the Newport News & Mississippi Valley, was elected President of the Ohio Valley at the meeting of the directors in New York June 17. He replaces P. G. Kelsey, who has been President seven years. The Ohio Valley has bought the Princeton branch of the Louisville & Nashville, extending from Princeton to Clarksville, Tenn.

A special from Louisville to the LEAF-CHRONICLE says that the Ohio Valley people have leased the Princeton Branch for ninety-nine years and will take charge at once.

A DRUG CLERK'S MISTAKE.

Manufacturer Mundi is Given Morphine for Quinine.

New York, June 28.—Martin Mundi, of the firm of Mundi Brothers, shirt manufacturers, died Sunday night of morphine poisoning, under peculiar circumstances. To drive away a headache he went to the drug store of William Glomer to purchase quinine and Thomas Nicoll waited on him. Nicoll had been employed at the store but a few days.

Mundi called for ten grains of sulphate of quinine and went home and retired. Early in the morning one of his brothers awoke hearing Martin moaning. The household was summoned and each member of the family was sent for a physician. Five doctors were gathered about the bedside, but with all their efforts the young man died.

The police were notified and Coroner Schultz pronounced death due to morphine poisoning.

When Nicoll learned what had happened he fled and the police are searching for him.

Nothing was found in the dead man's room to indicate suicide and he had no mental worry so far as known.

SIGNS AND PASSWORDS.

Archbishop Consents to a Catholic Society Using Them.

TORONTO, June 28.—At a session of the Roman Catholic union of the Knights of St. John a resolution was adopted instructing the supreme board of trustees to draw up a system of signs and passwords. The adoption of such a code has long been under discussion, but was opposed by the clergy. A petition, however, was recently circulated and upon its presentation to Archbishop Walsh, supreme spiritual adviser of the order, was approved by him, he stating in a letter that such a code might be adopted, provided such passwords and signs be made known to the competent ecclesiastical authority if asked for.

SHOT LIKE A DOG.

Suffering from Hydrophobia He Attacked a Boy, Who Shot Him.

SCOTTSVILLE, O., June 28.—A man named Odell was bitten by a mad dog two months ago. Sunday he went mad and commenced biting trees, posts, and everything he came to. Near his home he took after a boy named Henson. The boy had been hunting, and while Odell was gaining on him, the boy turned and fired his rifle. The ball took effect between the eyes, killing Odell instantly. Odell's home is on Long run.

AN ABLE JOURNALIST.

INTERESTING INCIDENTS IN THE CAREER OF WATSON'S PARTNER.

How W. N. Haldeman Established the Louisville Courier-Journal. The Paper Had a Precarious Existence During the War. News Gathering Under Difficulties.

[Special Correspondence.]

LOUISVILLE, June 16.—One of the most valuable newspaper properties in the south is the Louisville Courier-Journal. Its influence in public matters throughout the south and southwest is perhaps greater than that of any other journal.

In the building up of such a newspaper there has been called into play the highest order of executive skill and the most thorough knowledge of the business of newspaper publishing. The Courier-Journal could never have been what it is without the brilliant editorial pen of Henry Watterson; it would have been quite as much of an impossibility without the energetic and sagacious management of Walter Newman Haldeman.

Though well known among newspaper publishers everywhere, and to all people of his native state, Mr. Haldeman's life of business has made him less familiarly known to the general public than his collaborator, Mr. Watterson, but he is a man of remarkable character and with a career as full of interest as it is of success.

April 27 Mr. Haldeman celebrated his seventy-first birthday. His years sit well upon him, and in spite of them he is still a constant and tireless worker. He is a native of Mayville, Ky. His father was of Swiss origin, but both his parents came to Kentucky from Pennsylvania. He began life as clerk in a Louisville business house, having received his education in the schools at Mayville. General Grant was his schoolmate during part of the time. In 1840 he joined the newspaper workers as "bookkeeper" for the Louisville Journal, edited by the brilliant George D. Prentice. In 1844 he became owner of The Daily Dime, a paper which had been unsuccessfully run for about eleven months, and which he took to secure a dog. He thus began by accident his career as a newspaper publisher.

In June, 1844, he enlarged The Dime and changed its name to The Morning Courier, a paper whose name is still preserved in that of The Courier-Journal. During the next ten years he took in at different times a number of partners, but always bought back the interest he had sold. The task of establishing the paper required patience and hard work, and only one of his indomitable pluck would have stuck to it. By 1854 he had incorporated a publication company. Mr. Haldeman's time was mainly devoted to the business interests of the paper, though he wrote a great deal and wrote well. There are few better paragraphs, and his close supervision of every part of the paper and his energy and liberality in gathering news under the difficult conditions then prevailing in the west won success.

In 1861 The Courier, which sided with the south, was suppressed by General Robert Anderson and the office seized. Mr. Haldeman avoided arrest through the timely warning of one of his employees, who overheard two Federal officers discussing the plans for capturing him. He made his way to General Buckner's headquarters at Bowling Green, Ky., in September, 1861, and soon after, at the direction of the Confederate authorities, began the publication of The Courier within the Confederate lines. He established an office and an associated editor and printed, because of the impossibility of securing the necessary outfit at the smaller place. The paper retained its Kentucky identity by its Bowling Green date line, and the Louisville-Bowling Green-Nashville Courier furnished many a merry jest to the Federals and the northern papers.

The paper, which was issued wholly from Nashville after the Confederate evacuation of Kentucky, was a success from the first. It became instantly a favorite with the army and the people of the south, and attained a circulation limited only by its mechanical facilities. Securing reliable news from the north was a difficult matter, but that was what was wanted in those trying times an experience both of the value of news and of the possibilities of an organized news service which has since been valuable to him. A number of active men were employed in the dangerous service of procuring files of northern newspapers for The Courier, and so perfect and regular was the service that the military authorities relied on The Courier for information. The adventures of these messengers in passing through the lines in search of news were often exciting.

After the war Mr. Haldeman resumed the publication of The Courier at Louisville, and in 1868 it was consolidated with The Journal, which had then passed from the control of Mr. Prentice to that of Mr. Watterson. The consolidated paper, called The Courier-Journal, has enjoyed uninterrupted prosperity, repaying its owners so handsomely that Mr. Haldeman has been enabled to become a large investor in other enterprises and to accumulate a splendid fortune.

Personally Mr. Haldeman is the most agreeable of men. Business cares do not sour him. He is at his desk more hours in the day than his most faithful employee, attending personally to a large correspondence, receiving at the same time a constant stream of callers and supervising every detail of The Courier-Journal. Every winter he runs off to his southern residence at Naples, on the Florida coast, for several months of rest and tarpon fishing. He is modest and unostentatious in his life and the most approachable of men. He really enjoys his work, and interruptions never annoy him. His manifold interests in business—for no man is more ready to go into a new enterprise—his known liberality in giving to church and charity, his political interests and his newspaper work make him much sought after, but he has always refused to interpose any ceremony to prevent callers from coming unannounced to his private office. Nothing in The Courier-Journal escapes his eye, and he is quick to note and reward faithful service.

Mr. Haldeman spends money lavishly to procure news and to provide the latest improved machinery for his papers, publishing The Evening Times in addition to The Courier-Journal. He was one of the first to try the type setting machines and is largely interested in the Mergenthaler. His papers, except advertisements and headlines, are entirely set up by machines, and he has the best of presses in the basement of the large Courier-Journal building. He always heads every stock subscription for the benefit of his city and state, and his gifts to the cause of charity and religion are munificent. He is held in the greatest esteem and affection in his city, and though his hair and beard are silvered with age, he bids fair to be in the harness for many years longer.

FOR THE DOG DAYS.

A Marvelous Madstone in Illinois Said to Cure Hydrophobia.

[Special Correspondence.]

CARTHAGE, ILL., June 16.—"Bitten by a mad dog!" is the startling headline that will soon begin to attract the eyes of readers of the daily press. It is indeed a horrible experience, and the average person shrinks instinctively from the thoughts of such a fate. Is there a cure for hydrophobia? It is said that Pasteur has discovered one, and if this celebrated Paris physician has really succeeded in providing a remedy for the poisonous bite of a rabid dog, he will certainly be entitled to the thanks of all mankind. It is said that few persons bitten by dogs and who die in spasms are really victims of rabies, but of imagination. Be this as it may, the death of a person who imagines all he sees and who is evidently suffering all the torments of the damned, is a most terrible one. Of all alleged cures for hydrophobia the "madstone," so called, is the most noted.

There is certainly a remarkable madstone in the possession of Thomas Orton, a pioneer farmer living in the little town of Denver, Hancock county, Ills. Mr. Orton is a pioneer of "Old Kaintuck," and came to Illinois along in the thirties. He brought with him the Orton madstone which has been in the possession of his family for many years. The stone has a history. It was found in an Indian mound in a southern state many years ago by a voodoo Indian doctor, and by him given to a negro who, as said, paid the penalty of its use in currenting snake and dog bites with her life, as she was regarded as a witch. The stone fell into the possession of a minister named Hongland, who was a neighbor of the Ortons in Kentucky. Hongland's boy was a schoolmate of one of the Orton boys and traded the stone to Orton's father, then a lad, for a jackknife.

While this stone remained in Kentucky it was used in curing innumerable cases of snake and dog bite. Since it has been in the possession of Mr. Thomas Orton, at Denver, fully 100 men, women and children have tested its virtues, and it is a matter of record that in one instance only did the stone fail to prevent the occurrence of the horrible disease. The case in question was that of a farmer living in Fulton county, Ills., who had been bitten by a mad dog, and who had neglected to have the wound properly attended to, as stated. He was in the incipient throes of the horrible malady when the stone was applied. Two others bitten by the same dog, who applied the madstone at once, suffered no inconvenience from their wounds. It is known that in a majority of the cases treated the victims had been bitten by dogs afflicted with rabies. The accompanying illustrations are from photographs of both sides of the Orton madstone.

Before applying the stone a physician scalds the wound. The stone is then boiled for some time in milk and water, and becomes soft and spongy. The smooth side of the stone is then applied. In every instance it adheres instantly and remains clinging to the wound for several hours. Often the green, slimy blood and water drawn from the wound seeps through the stone, running out upon the floor through the little pores, or honeycombs, shown on one side of the stone. All patients speak of experiencing a drawing sensation when the stone is applied.

GAY DAVIDSON.

THE PEOPLES' PARTY.

They are Assembling in Nashville To-day.

Judge Walter A. Gresham, of Illinois, Their Choice For President—Will Endorse Buchanan For Governor.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

NASHVILLE, June 28.—The State Capitol to-day is full of farmers, or members of the so called Peoples' party.

They haven't got down to steady work yet. Their object is to name a candidate for governor, select delegates to the Omaha convention, instruct them to vote for their choice for president and congratulate themselves upon their existence.

Editor Taylor, of the Toller, talked freely to the LEAF-CHRONICLE correspondent. He said that the party's choice for president was Judge Walter A. Gresham, of Illinois, who for many years has been a prominent Republican.

"If Buchanan accepts the nomination for governor, will you all endorse him?"

"We most certainly will, but if he does not Mims will suit us just as well, and you can bet your money that we'll elect him," Mr. Taylor replied.

Only about one-half the counties in the State are represented at the convention.

J. D. Robertson was chosen temporary chairman. Committee on organization and credentials was appointed and the convention adjourned until 1 p. m.

A prophet may be without honor in his own country, but there is more "C. C. C. Certain Corn Cure" sold at home than any other remedy of its kind put together. Sold by Owen & Moore.

Changed Their Name.

The Originals held a meeting last night and changed their name to the Gracy-Woodwards. The thing that made this change necessary is the fact that Capt. Gracy and W. H. Woodward have presented the club with a suit of uniform. Baseball is growing in Clarksville, and the city now has a team that has never been beaten. This, however, may not be the case when they have a chance to cross bats with some other club. Arthur Kleeman has been elected captain of the Gracy-Woodwards.

Republicans Will Not Put Out County Officers.

To the Tobacco Leaf-Chronicle:

I noticed in your issue of the 27th that I was a candidate for attorney general. I want to say that the statement is unfounded and unauthorized by me. I am not a candidate for attorney general and will not be under any consideration. I want to say further that the Republicans will have no county ticket in the field at all in my opinion.

G. Q. BOYD.

Whipped By White Caps.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

NASHVILLE, June 28.—One night last week a band of white caps went to Wm. Harrison's house in Sumner county, took him out, ducked him in a creek and severely whipped him. He had been too intimate with one E. B. Lassiter's daughter is the reason he was whipped.

Remains to be Removed.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

NASHVILLE, June 28.—By order of the Chancery court, the remains of Ex-President and Mrs. James K. Polk will be removed from the family burial grounds to Mt. Olivet.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs and colds quicker than any other remedy, because it combines the lung-healing quality of the pine tree with other valuable medicines. Sold by all dealers on a guarantee of satisfaction. Sold by Tudhope Drug Co.

Patriotic Boddie.

John T. Boddie, formerly of Lafayette, was at Chicago and gave vent to his enthusiasm when Stevenson was nominated by shouting "Hurrah for Flat'ick."—South Kentuckian.

Death at Cumberland City.

The many friends in this section of W. N. Thomas, of Cumberland City, will regret to learn that he lost a ten-months-old child this morning by measles.

Just received, a very handsome line of new matings at Bloch Bros. We have also decided to sell twenty rolls of tapestry Brussels at less than cost of manufacture.
